TITLE

Online Instructional Strategies That Just Plain Work

BRIEF SYNOPSIS

During this unique and engaging webinar, Dr. Lodge McCammon will share some strategies that are just plain working in online classrooms at Wake Tech Community College. We will be looking closely at methods that help students prepare for online learning as well as media creation techniques that can help instructors enhance their presence. Throughout the presentation, you will hear from a variety of instructors and students while Dr. Lodge models an active online learning environment. Be prepared to discuss, create, reflect, and share!

Q&A with Dr. Lodge McCammon :

Q: What about captioning? My college has ADA requirements for every video.

A: If you put videos on YouTube, the caption is created automatically and also translated!

Q: I just had a bad experience in which I started teaching a class the week before classes went online. The students didn't know me so the engagement was horrible. Any advice?

A: That's tough. Try using video as a way to introduce yourself to the students and personalize the experience.

to mention that if they watch it later, they don't have a chance to ask questions.
